

Steven Smith Edinburgh Windows and door - meeting summary

Tuesday, 13 January 2026

14:28

<https://www.edinburghwindowsanddoors.co.uk>

Meeting purpose

- You wanted more leads from your website and social channels.
- You wanted clarity on what changes drive results for your window manufacturing business.
- You wanted a route to more B2B trade enquiries, not only homeowner enquiries.

What you shared

- The current website does not present you as a timber window and door manufacturer.
- The site reads like a PVC and composite door supplier.
- The home page uses prime space without clear manufacturing visuals or clear calls to action.
- Content repeats, page flow feels cluttered, and the message feels unclear on desktop.
- The current supplier focuses on “SEO as a service” but you still do not see traction.
- You do not get usable analytics or clear reporting from the current supplier.
- Email and calendar setup blocks basic teamwork, shared calendars, and remote working.

Lead sources today

- Instagram messages.
- Website enquiry form.
- Google searches.
- TrustATrader.

Business goals you stated

- Increase enquiries for timber sash and case windows and timber doors.
- Reduce over-reliance on composite door enquiries.
- Win more B2B work, trade accounts, repeat monthly orders.
- Present a stronger UK-wide offer, not Edinburgh-only.
- Show past work properly, including high-profile commercial projects.

Gaps on the current site

- Positioning gap
 - Visitors do not see “we manufacture timber sash and case windows” fast enough.
 - Visuals do not show your workshop, your process, or finished timber installs.
- Conversion gap
 - No clear “Book a survey” journey.
 - No self-serve booking tied to your live availability.
 - Limited capture of intent, project type, location, budget range, and timescales.
- Proof gap
 - High-value projects sit in the wrong place or feel buried.
 - Case studies lack structure, photos, scope, outcomes, and client context.
- B2B gap

- No clear trade page, trade account offer, or B2B enquiry route.
 - No dedicated landing pages for builders, developers, and architects.
- Measurement gap
 - Weak visibility on traffic sources, keyword performance, and conversion rates.

How we help you drive more B2B leads

1. Reposition the site around manufacturing

- Update the hero section with a timber manufacturing visual.
- Add one clear line: timber sash and case windows, timber doors, made in Scotland.
- Add three fast proof points
 - Lead times range.
 - Materials and finishes.
 - Install coverage across the UK.

2. Build a B2B lead engine

- Create dedicated pages for:
 - Trade accounts.
 - Builders and house builders.
 - Architects and specifiers.
 - Developers and main contractors.
- Add a trade CTA on every page:
 - “Open a trade account”
 - “Request trade pricing”
 - “Book a trade call”
- Add a simple trade pack download:
 - Product range, specs, finishes, glazing options, guarantees, lead times.
 - Requires name, company, email, phone.

3. Fix project showcasing so it sells for you

- Create a “Projects” hub with filters:
 - Residential, commercial, heritage, new build, extensions, conversions.
 - Location.
 - Product type.
- Rebuild case studies with a consistent format:
 - The brief.
 - The constraints.
 - What you manufactured.
 - Install approach.
 - Outcome.
 - Photos, before and after.
- Put flagship projects on the home page, above the fold.

4. Add an AI chat and booking system for higher conversion

- Add “Book a survey” button site-wide.
- Connect booking to a shared calendar with set availability blocks.
- Add an AI chat that:
 - Qualifies the enquiry in under 60 seconds.

- Captures project type, address area, property type, desired style, timescale.
- Routes to B2B or homeowner flows.
- Offers booking once qualified.

5. Stop missed-call leakage with a voice agent

- Use a voice agent for evenings and weekends.
- Capture missed-call leads and send:
 - A text summary.
 - An email summary.
 - A CRM entry for follow-up.
- Target follow-up inside five minutes for higher close rates.

6. Put measurement and reporting under your control

- Set up:
 - GA4 events for form submits, calls, bookings, downloads.
 - Call tracking on key pages.
 - Monthly dashboard: sessions, source mix, lead counts, booking rate, cost per lead.
- Share reporting access with you, no waiting on a supplier.

Next actions we take

- Website and SEO audit
 - Identify pages pulling the wrong traffic.
 - Identify missing timber product pages and B2B landing pages.
 - Review headings, internal links, and page structure.
- Messaging and structure plan
 - New home page wireframe.
 - New navigation based on products and buyer types.
- Build plan
 - Projects hub and 6 to 10 case studies.
 - Trade account pages and lead capture.
 - Booking and AI chat integration.
 - Voice agent integration for missed calls.
- Content plan for the next 8 weeks
 - Weekly project post.
 - Weekly manufacturing process post.
 - Two B2B focused posts per month aimed at builders and architects.

What success looks like

- Higher share of timber sash and case enquiries.
- Clear growth in B2B trade enquiries and repeat accounts.
- Higher booking rate from site visits.
- Clear month-on-month reporting you control.